

The New York Public Library
Carl H. Pforzheimer Collection of Shelley and His Circle

Guide to the

Address'd to the ladies at Little Chelsea [manuscript poem]

1780s?

Pforz Ms

Summary

Title: Address'd to the ladies at Little Chelsea [manuscript poem]

Date: 1780s?

Size: 3 1/_ pages (double sheet)

Abstract: Anonymous fair copy sixty-one line poem, apparently unpublished, about a young woman named Fanny, forced by her family to work as a servant and seamstress at a vicarage; begins, "As you my dear friends have oft said was a pity / That a Girl like your Fanny so lively witty, / So form'd for to shine, at a Ball, or a Play, / By a Brother, and Aunt, shou'd be hurried away" The paper bears an armorial watermark of Britannia and a countermark of the letter "C" in a circle; paper with similar watermarks dates to the 1780's.

Access: Restricted access.

Preferred citation: Address'd to the ladies at Little Chelsea [manuscript poem], Carl H. Pforzheimer Collection of Shelley and His Circle, The New York Public Library

Scope and Content Note

Anonymous fair copy sixty-one line poem, apparently unpublished, about a young woman named Fanny, forced by her family to work as a servant and seamstress at a vicarage; begins, "As you my dear friends have oft said was a pity / That a Girl like your Fanny so lively & witty, / So form'd for to shine, at a Ball, or a Play, / By a Brother, and Aunt, shou'd be hurried away" The paper bears an armorial watermark of Britannia and a countermark of the letter "C" in a circle; paper with similar watermarks dates to the 1780's.

Key Terms

Subjects

English poetry -- 18th century -- Manuscripts -- Specimens

Household employees -- Poetry

Women tailors -- Poetry