Creator History

James Wood Henderson served as Director of the Research Libraries of The New York Public Library from 1963 to 1977. Henderson was born in Missouri on July 6, 1917. He received a B.A. (1939) and an M.A. (1941) in English from the University of Oklahoma. Henderson was Assistant Librarian of the Bartlesville, Oklahoma Public Library (1941-1942), and then Assistant to the Dean and Instructor at the University of Oklahoma (1943-1944). He joined the Army Signal Corps in 1944 and served until 1946. Henderson came to New York in 1947 for graduate study at Columbia University's School of Library Service where in 1948 he received an MLS. In 1958 he earned a Master's Degree in Public Administration from New York University. In 1947 Henderson joined The New York Public Library as Acquisitions Assistant. He left The Library in 1950 to head the Cataloging Section of the New York State Library. Henderson returned to NYPL in 1952 and was appointed to increasingly responsible positions in the Reference Department (renamed the Research Libraries in 1966). He was Chief of Acquisitions (1953-1959), Assistant to Director Edward G. Freehafer (1959-1963) and Chief of the Reference Department/Research Libraries (1963-1972).

Significant accomplishments of Henderson's years as Director include the opening of the Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture and the Library and Museum for the Performing Arts at Lincoln Center, the publication of an 800-volume edition of the Research Libraries card catalog, the first efforts towards the automation of the catalog and establishment of a comprehensive conservation program. In 1972 Henderson was appointed the first Andrew W. Mellon Director of the Research Libraries, an endowed position with essentially the same responsibilities as his previous job. Henderson retired from The Library in 1977, but returned one year later to direct Project RETRO, a task force established to edit and rehabilitate The Library's catalog.

Henderson served as Editor of The New York Library Association Bulletin, Lecturer at Pratt Institute Library School, and as a Regent to the Public Librarians' Certification Examination Committee of the University of the State of New York.

The files of the planning stages of the Schomburg Center for Black Culture contain reports, correspondence, memoranda, minutes, and newspaper clippings. Also included are some records of Henderson's predecessor, Harald Ostvold, and additional materials of Paul North Rice, Edward G. Freehafer and Rutherford D. Rogers.
