Creator History

The National Negro Congress was established, in 1936, to "secure the right of the Negro people to be free from Jim Crowism, segregation, discrimination, lynching, and mob violence" and "to promote the spirit of unity and cooperation between Negro and white people." It was conceived as a national coalition of church, labor, and civil rights organizations that would coordinate protest action in the face of deteriorating economic conditions for Blacks. Executive secretaries were John P. Davis, 1935-1942; Edward Strong, 1943; and Revels Cayton, 1945-1947.

The Negro Labor Victory Committee, founded in 1942, was an organization of Black and white trade union officials from the American Federation of Labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and the Railroad Brotherhoods. It was organized to encourage Black workers to fight for equality within organized labor, government, and the Armed Forces.

Scope and Content Note

This collection consists of the files of John P. Davis, Edward Strong, and Revels Cayton, as well as financial records and publications. Also included are Davis's files from the Negro Industrial League, 1933, of which he had been executive secretary; Davis's files from the Joint Committee on National Recovery, 1933-1935, an ad-hoc lobby to protect black interests in the federal government; and his subject/reference files on different aspects of the "Negro question". Finally, the records of the Negro Labor Victory Committee, 1942-1945, contain files of Charles A. Collins, executive secretary, and M. Moran Weston, field secretary; they include correspondence, subject/organization files, and printed matter.

Arrangement: Organized into four series: (1) Records; (2) Correspondence; (3) Financial records and publications; and (4) Negro Labor Victory Committee.
