Biography

Born and educated in Vienna, Fred Fehl (1906-1995) showed an early interest in music, theater and art. Since his arrival in New York City in 1939, he has devoted his life to photographing the performing arts. Fehl was a pioneer in the taking of candid photographs during performances with available stage lighting, and has documented many productions from Broadway, the New York City Opera and Ballet, and American Ballet Theater, as well as unique performances which would otherwise have been visually lost.

Scope

The Music Division collection consists primarily of extensive image documentation of the New York City Opera from its inception in 1944 through 1980, as well as City Opera related images (staff, functions, etc.) Fehl also photographed many rehearsals and some performances at Lewisohn Stadium, which are undated. A small collection of conductors in action is also noteworthy, mostly taken in the Forties. Minimal images of other musical activity in New York City are also included.

The Music Division acquired the Fehl images in two parts: an earlier set of photographs was added into the General Iconography and Opera Files. This later collection is separate, although it includes the negatives for many of the photographs from the earlier set. Wherever possible, concordance has been listed in the finding-aid, and an appendix listing collection negatives by FF# (see explanation in preface "photograph" section) allows for other coordination. In the appendix, there are lists of NYC opera and Lewisohn Stadium negatives in order by FF# to assist with photo/negative coordination.

Photographs are not to be reproduced without written permission from the Fred Fehl Estate. Please enquire of the Music Division for more information.

This finding-aid is broken into several sections. Some general information: all opera performances and rehearsals are New York City Opera unless otherwise specified. Fred Fehl numbered his photographs, negatives and slides, and his numbers are always referred to as "FF#" to avoid confusion.

Probable cast lists. The cast lists are taken from George Meyer's annals of City Opera as listed in: Sokol, Martin. The New York City Opera. New York: Macmillan, 1981. Cast lists are only reproduced for productions represented by positive images (slides or photographs). No specific dates were supplied by Mr. Fehl, so dates are based on information about new productions, special performances, etc. Dates are underlined within each opera entry, with multiple performances listed chronologically. Production credits are not reiterated if they are the same as the previous performance listed.

Slides. Series I of the collection consists of slides stored in carousels which can be viewed on the slide-viewer in the Microfilm Room. Series I includes opera images only, which are listed in alphabetical order by production.

Photographs. Series II consists entirely of silver gelatin photoprints : b&w ; 5" x 7," stored in numerical order. This series is broken into the smaller groupings of conductors, operas, and miscellaneous other City Opera-related images. The conductor photos are in alphabetical order by subject. Some of these are initialed or autographed on the verso: they were probably chosen for reproduction by the subject.

The opera photos are in alphabetical order by production and within production by FF#. Earlier in his career, Fehl was not particular in the numbering of his opera negatives (and therefore photos) and only numbered rolls from a specific performance, usually 1-5 or so. These numbers are noted in quotes wherever they appear, to distinguish them from his later system. By the Fifties, he was giving specific numbers to each roll of opera film as it was taken, so starting with about FF#10 in 1953 (with a few early mistakes) through FF#626 in 1980, the numbers are strictly chronological. With this more specific system, Fehl was able to number a photograph with the negative roll number, then the frame number (11 frames for 120mm, 36 frames for 35mm) resulting in numbers like 626-01 or 120-11, etc. Fehl noted these numbers on the verso of all his photographs, making coordination with their negatives relatively easy.

Within the opera photographs, many productions include both production shots and "studio portraits." Unless otherwise marked, photos are assumed to be production shots. Studio portraits refer to posed publicity stills, and because they are frequently taken before the run of the production, they do not necessarily reflect correct documentation of costume and make-up. Whenever possible, these portraits are identified by specific subjects, as seen left to right. Production shots are only identified by specific subject if only one singer is represented; readers are otherwise referred to the Possible Cast List section for specific information. Roman numerals in the performance field refer to ACT/scene.

Negatives. The negative portion of this collection is not housed as a part of JPB 93-6, but rather with the other Music Division negatives in the Negative File. They can be paged by call number like any other negative. The negatives in this collection correspond with the Series II photos, although not all negatives have prints within the collection. As explained earlier, the Music Division acquired the Fehl work in two installments: an earlier set of photographs was added into the General Iconography and Opera Files. Prints for many of the print-less negatives of the collection can be found in the Opera File (for opera subjects) or in Regular Iconography

(for stadium subjects, individuals, or solo opera portraits.) An appendix listing collection negatives by FF# (see explanation in photograph section) allows for easy coordination.

Unfortunately, some of the earlier negatives are nitrate, which precludes their storage in the Negative File. These negatives are marked as nitrate in the finding-aid, and are stored separately in the Nitrate cabinet.

All negative call numbers have several parts: the prefix letter "A" refers to strip negatives (35mm or 120mm) and "B" to 4" x 5" or smaller negatives; the following is the fixed-order number of the negative; and in the case of "A" negatives, the lowercase letter suffix refers to the specific strip (rolls of film are treated as one entity.) A fourth part is added to the call number if a specific frame on a strip is indicated. "A" negatives are 35mm unless otherwise noted. If the negative frame image does not seem to correspond with the photograph, check the earlier or later frame as sometimes the frame numbers are ambiguous in their placement. Opera negatives are performance photos unless marked otherwise as studio portraits, sets, rehearsals, etc. FF#s listed in quotes refer to the roll number in a run: see the explanation on FF#s in the earlier "photographs" paragraph for more information.

The negative finding-aid breakdown is by subject (conductors, operas, stadium, other,) then by negative size within each section. When in doubt about a subject, check the index. All the opera negatives are from NYCO unless otherwise noted (in boldface). The Lewisohn Stadium negatives are unfortunately undated, retaining only relative chronology by FF#. Fehl used the same fixed-order numbering system with the stadium negatives as he did with the City Opera negatives (see the earlier "photographs" paragraph for further explanation.) Many of these negatives do have prints in Regular Iconography from the earlier Fehl acquisition, and can be matched by using the FF#s and frame numbers as a guide.

Index. All four of the finding-aid sections are indexed. The "Probable Cast List" entries are in Roman numerals to distinguish them from actual image entries. The format should be self-evident, starting with a chronology followed by subject entries. All alternate or English translation titles will have cross-references to the title used in the finding-aid.

Appendices. These lists include general content information which is repeated in the index, as well as some specialized lists designed to assist in coordinating Fehl photographs from the General Iconography and Opera Files with negatives in this collection. Because the finding-aid was finished after the lists were compiled, in the event of discrepancies, consult the finding-aid. Content lists include conductors, opera photos and slides, and opera negatives. The more specialized lists of negatives in FF# order are intended to assist in finding negatives for the photographs in the General Music Division photo files. Fehl marked his numbers on every photo in the Division, so finding the proper negative is just a question of taking the FF# from the verso of the photograph, finding it on either the opera or stadium list (two separate numbering systems) and requesting the negative by call number.
